From Colombia's lush orchards nestled in the Andes to produce aisles and kitchens across the U.S., every avocado begins its journey in rich volcanic soil and ideal growing conditions. With care at every step—from harvest to cold chain logistics—Colombian avocados arrive fresh, flavorful, and ready to delight. Discover how nature and precision come together to create unforgettable eating experiences, one avocado at a time.

HISTORY HAS A STORY & PLACE

In 2017, APHIS officially authorized importation of Colombian Hass avocados into the US market, followed by the first commercial shipments in 2018.

Today, there are 9 Departments (Regions) producing high-quality Hass Avocados. With ideal natural rainfall, fertile volcanic soil and diverse microclimates in various elevations, Colombia offers year-round supply.
